KNOTT RESIGNS AS SUPERVISOR

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Survival of the fittest is again indicated by that platform story coming out of the Indiana flood zone. A farmer put his cow, a cat, a rabbit and a squirrel on a high platform out of the reach of the high water. He supplied them with plenty of food. When he returned, however, he found all present with the exception of the rabbit. A sheepish grin on the countenance of the cat told his guilt.

It's good news to hear that the north approach to the Carquinez bridge is soon to be repaired. That section in the one bottleneck in the route from the bay regions to the north. It is estimated that the stretch of highway will cost approximately $8070.

"I felt so sorry for him I came very near helping him." That classic fell from the lips of a robust young man at the end of a pitiful yarn recently. The narrator had just completed telling a yarn about an eight year old boy who was confronted with a big stack of dirty pots and pans in a bakery shop. It seems the tot was aiding his family in making a living by washing the pots and pans in the bakery for $3 a week. This world is full of big hearted people like that.

Another brave soul. The mayor of Wilkesbarre, Pa., insists that the city pass a law adjudging as insane all those who go without a hat during winter. And the mayor doesn't run a hat store either. The law, according to Hizzoner is to do away with a "new species of lunatics."

Marin county seems to be winning its battle against billboards on highways in that scenic section. As soon as the entire state starts a battle against this unsightly type of advertising our scenery may be returned to the tourists. If California wishes to retain its reputation as a scenic wonderland something drastic will have to be done to remove many of the unsightly and view-blanking sign boards.

Our pet peeve: Some of those "experts" who conduct columns on how to raise children. Especially the spinsters and bachelors who have never had to spend 24 hours a day with some of the newer generation when they were slightly out of sorts because of something they had eaten, or because of a cold.

Spring is nearly upon us. Dirt is flying in every direction and weeds that have gotten an early start are perishing by the thousands. Ambition will soon wane, however, and the weeds will take the upper hand.

An inducement to amateur vegetable and flower gardeners might be offered by some of our local organizations in the form of prizes for the best appearing garden of each type. We will soon have thousands of home seekers in our midst and well-kept gardens will be quite an inducement to make them look a second time.

Another airplane pilot has lost his life because he refused to follow the first rule of safety in flying. Luckily, this Seattle youth did not take others to death with him. Flying will only become safe when those engaged in it will learn to observe the first fundamental rules of safety.

Dividends Declared By Ferry Co.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 27—(U.P.)—Three dividends were declared by the board of directors of the Southern Pacific Golden Gate company here today. They amounted to $1.50 a share on outstanding preferred capital stock, 37½ cents a share on A capital stock, and 37½ cents a share on B capital stock. All will be paid Feb. 15 to stockholders of record on Jan. 31.

OWNER SAYS COST TOO HIGH

James L. Muir a property owner in what is known as the Rheem avenue district in a communication to the city council last night made a vigorous protest against any improvement of Humphrey street.

The communication was referred to the city attorney and city manager.

To the Honorable Mayor and erty is outside the city limits, and the improvement proceedings were taken before the board of supervisors and the necessary action taken. It will only be a short time before bids on the work will be received.

The work is being done under a so-called district improvement act.

The property was originally a part of the Herbert Brown properties, afterwards was turned over to "The Richmond Company," and heavily bonded. It was later taken over by the American Trust company and is being handled through that institution at the present time.

No Water, Gas

Muir asserts there is no water or gas on the property, and on the lots he owns it would cost him $1600 to get a water line run to it.

The communication of Muir reads as follows:

To the Honorable Mayor and City Council
Richmond, California.

"I have been informed thru the daily papers that there is a proposition to be put before you to have Humphrey street

Y BREAKFAST NEXT SUNDAY

A Y. M. C. A. leaders' breakfast scheduled to be held last Sunday morning has been postponed until next Sunday. The date as formerly set conflicted with a breakfast held at the same time by the St. Edmund's Episcopal church Sunday school.

The topic in discussion at next Sunday's Y. M. C. A. breakfast will be "Methods of Conducting Friendly Indian Meetings," and will be led by Reynold Carlson, director of the Richmond Y. M. C. A. This is the second in a series of meetings designed to assist the leaders of juvenile clubs.

The breakfast will be held at the local Y. M. C. A. building.

Mrs. Martinez Dies At Home

Mrs. Juana Martinez, 31, died yesterday at her home on Sanford avenue in North Richmond, after an illness of more than a year.

A native of Mexico, Mrs. Martinez has lived in Richmond the past seven years.

Funeral services are pending in the hands of Wilson and Kratzer parlors.

She is survived by her husband, Thomas, two daughters, Josephine, 6, and Mary, 3; two sons, Xavier, 10, and Louis, six months and two sisters in Mexico.

Driver Escapes In Auto Crash

George Wood, of Twenty-third street and Emmerich avenue, San Pablo escaped death or serious injuries in an automobile crash at Twenty-fourth street and Esmond avenue, yesterday afternoon.

According to police reports, a car driven by Wood came in collision with a car being driven by E. Miilu, 2832 Fulton street, Berkeley.

Wood's car was overturned by the impact and was badly damaged.

No one was injured.

RUSSEL MEYER, who acted as mayor last night during the weekly session of the city council. Mayor A. L. Paulsen is confined to his home by illness.

$100,010.11 1929 INCOME AT WHARVES

The gross revenues of wharves 1, 2 and 3 for the year ending Dec. 31, 1929, were $100,010.11, according to a report of the Parr-Richmond Terminal corporation filed with the city council last night. The expense for the same period amounted to $42,492.57, leaving a net profit of $57,517.54.

Of this amount the share of the Parr Terminal corporation is $30,828.74 and the City of Richmond's share is $26,688.80. The city does not get any part of the money but it is credited to what is known as the "improvement fund."

During the 12 months there were 252,283 tons of freight that passed over the city's wharves.

From January 1, 1929 to Aug. 31, 1929, the revenue of wharves 1 and 2 were $53,569.92 and the expenses $16,321.06. From Sept. 1 to Dec. 31, 1929, the revenues of wharves 1 and 2 were $26,240.59, and the expenses $14,251.79.

From Sept. 1 to Dec. 31, 1929, the revenues of wharf 3, which is the new unit completed this year were $20,199.60, and the expenses were $11,919.72.

One bicycle was recovered by the Richmond police last night and two were reported stolen according to police reports.

A bicycle owned by Douglas Salmi, 1009 Barrett avenue, stolen on Dec. 3 was recovered by police yesterday.

Bicycles owned by E. Milani, 20 Fourth street and Bruno Isaac 655 Union street, were reported stolen.

FIVE KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

KANSAS CITY, Mo.— Jan. 27.—UP— Five persons were killed when a passenger plane operated by the Central Air lines en route to this city from Wichita, Kas., crashed near Fairfax airport here late today, it was formally announced by Universal Air Transport offices here tonight.

The dead were:

Pilot Dick Lauderman, Kansas City, Kas.

Roy C. McKinnon, St. Louis.

Miss Marguerite Dice, Oklahoma City.

William Flynn, no address.

James Eggerty, 708 Woods Theater building, Chicago.

The crash occured as the plane swung toward the airfield making ready to land. Spectators said it burst into flames at an altitude of 150 feet after its motor had sputtered for some time.

Wreckage of the plane was reached by several score field attendants who were unable to take out the bodies because of the heat. After snow was thrown over the conflagration, the bodies were found piled up in the front end of the cabin compartment.

All were dead and unrecognizable from burns.

Identification of McKinnon's body was made by P. H. Brown, a business associate who was awaiting his arrival at the airport. The only means of establishing his identity was by a belt buckle.

Others of the plane's passengers were identified through records of the carrier company.

The plane was a Travelair six passenger carrier. Its metal fuselage and motor were completely wrecked by the crash and flames.

E. L. Slaniger, district manager of Universal at Fairfax airport saw the plane on the horizon and watched its approach to the field. He said it appeared the motor was in trouble and that Pilot Lauderman was apparently trying to make a forced landing.

CARLSON TO FACE KNIFE

T. M. Carlson, Richmond city attorney who is in the Providence hospital Oakland is preparing for an operation to be performed within a few days.

While an aviation student during the World war Carlson's plane crashed on a southern field. An injury to one of the attorney's legs was remedied with the insertion of a silver plate to support one of the injured bones.

According to physicians an infection has set in about this plate and poisoned the patients entire system. Surgeons will remove this plate within the next few days.

RESCUE PARTY LANDED AT SCENE OF EIELSON CRASH

NEW YORK, Jan. 27—(U.P.)—Four men were landed today at the spot where Carl Ben Eielson, ace of arctic aviators, and his mechanic, Earl Borland, crashed on the lonely tundra—the treeles plain of the Arctic—according to a message received here tonight.

The message came to Raymond S. Pollister, of the Skencon Fur corporation, whose headquarters are at the Governor Clinton hotel. It was based on a message from Joe Crosson and Fred Gillam, aviators who were seeking word of the fliers, missing for weeks.

From the message it was possible to reconstruct more of the tragic rescue flight Eielson and Borland were making between Alaska and the ice-locked fur ship Nanuk. It said:

"Crosson and Gillam returned to the Nanuk today after taking four men to the wrecked plane to clear away about four feet of surrounding snow. They are returning tomorrow.

"Opinion of both fliers is that the plane struck the tundra at flying speed. The throttle was wide open and the propellor was wrapped round the motor.

"There is every indication that the plane was not trying to land when it struck. The altimeter registered 1000 feet. The clock stopped at 3:10 Teller (Alaska) time. Wreckage was scattered for 100 feet."

"Undoubtedly," Pollister said tonight, "the plane went into a tail

Fitts Enters Governor Race

BURTON FITTS, war veteran, former lieutenant-governor, and at present district attorney of Los Angeles county, who has announced his candidacy for governor in the coming primaries,

BURTON FITTS ENTERS RACE FOR GOVERNOR

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27.—Burton Ftts, former lieutenant governor of the state of California and now district attorney for Los Angeles county today announced his candidacy for the post of governor.

"If the people of California see fit to entrust me with the governorship," Fitts said, "I pledge to the performance of the duties of that position all the honesty, courage and ability I possess."

Thousands of messages were received by Fitts today from friends all over the state who lauded him and wished him success.

Several weeks ago it was definitely understood that Fitts would enter the race for the governorship. At that time, however, he refused to be quoted.

Masonic Lodge Hears Lecture

Gentle breezes wafted from the far off Southern seas, and a tropical balm pervaded the atmosphere of the Masonic hall last night when motion pictures of the South Sea Islands and Australia were shown.

The pictures and accompanying lecture were sponsored by the Matson Steamship line under the auspices of the Harbor Masonic lodge.

Roy A. Murray, the lecturer, gave his listeners a very interesting and amusing talk, illustrating the pictures.

A short musical program was presented with the lecture, and light refreshments were served at the conclusion of the evening.

Many Masons, their families and friends attended the lecture.

$3563 Received By County From Bus Truck Fund

Contra Costa county's share of the annual tax collected by the state from operators of buses and motor trucks will be $3563.70, according to an announcement made in Sacramento by Ray L. Riley, state controller.

The tax was collected under the law charging 4 1-2 percent of gross receipts to passenger-carrying motor transport companies and five percent to freight carriers. One half of the county collections is returned to the counties for use on highways.

Los Angeles will receive $120,380.91 of the total of $501,202.92; San Francisco will receive $23,627.14 and Alameda county will receive $21,660. Alpine county will receive the smallest amount, $10.74.

APARTMENT PLANNED HERE

Another imposing addition to Richmond's skyline is expected within a short time in a three story apartment building to be constructed here by A. B. Hanson of Oakland.

Hanson has submitted plans and specifications for the structure which it is expected will cost from $60,000 to $75,000. The structure will contain 18 three room apartments and will be of the most modern construction through out. A full basement will be equipped with garages for the tenants of the building.

Two sites are under consideration for the building by Hanson. One is the site of the old Maternity hospital, Tenth street and Pennsylvania avenue. Hanson is also known to be considering a location on Thirty-ninth street near Bissell avenue.

As soon as plans and specifications have been checked and found to comply with the building code of this city it is expected that Hanson will make a definite announcement on the selection of the site.

BLAST THREAT IN RACE RIOT

SAN JOSE, Jan. 27—(U.P.)—Authorities here were advised today that threats had been made to dynamite the homes of Filipinos in this region as a reprisal for the wounding of Alfred Johnson, 20, during riots between whites and Filipinos over labor problems last week. The uprisings had quieted down over the weekend.

As a result of the asserted threats, large forces of deputies were maintained and Leonard Bressette, 20, San Jose, was arrested on an open charge.

TWO ARRESTED IN GANG FIGHT

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 27.—UP—Two Filipinos were arrested and seven or eight white men escaped as the result of a fight in a downtown district here tonight.

Ten police officers answered a riot call but said all the white combatants had disappeared when they arrived and found the Filipinos who had not been badly hurt.

Police said the Filipinos were accompanied by two white girls. The natives claim two white men made "fresh remarks" to them and the battle started. They were charged with disturbing the peace. They gave the names of Rose Guno, Rosegundo Peralta and Jose Francisco.

Drivers Bail Set At $1000

Arraigned before Police Judge C. A. Odell yesterday morning, W. D. Murphy, 2732 Downer avenue, had his bail set at $1000 cash on a charge of driving while drunk. Date for preliminary hearing has not been set. Murphy furnished the bail and was released last night.

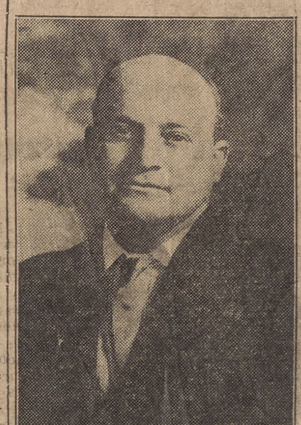
Murphy was arrested following a collision between his car and a machine being driven by Charles McGrady of San Francisco, at Twenty-third street and Barrett avenue Saturday night. Mrs. Murphy was slightly injured in the accident.

Mrs. Sue Brown Scores Accuser

SALINAS, Jan. 27—(U.P.)—An affidavit charging that the search warrant issued against her was illegal was sworn out here today by Mrs. Sue Brown, whose baby died at birth a week after she had been sent to jail on a charge of possessing liquor.

Mrs. Brown claimed the document was issued for Dec. 15 and she did not see the "under cover" agent, Wesley Owen Patton, until Dec. 21.

Resigns As Supervisor



ZEB KNOTT, supervisor of this district for the last 15 years, who yesterday submitted his resignation to the post. He plans an eastern tour.

KNOTT ENDS 15 YEARS AS COUNTY AID

Planning an extended trip, and feeling that the interests of the taxpayers of the county should at all times be represented, Zeb Knott, supervisor of the First district yesterday handed in his resignation to County Clerk J. H. Wells, and it will be immediately forwarded to Governor C. C. Young, who will appoint his successor.

Knotts plans for future activity have not yet been decided, and will not until the conclusion of his eastern trip.

Knott has been elected to the office of supervisor for four successive terms, a period of 16 years, and at the time of his resignation had served a little over 15 years. At one of the elections he was chosen without opposition, and at the other elections although facing stiff opposition increased his large majorities each time.

Excellent Record

During the time that Knott has occupied office, he has been very active, is known in all parts of the county, and has made a record of which any official could well feel proud.

In 1915 when he went into office, the assessed value of the property of supervisor district No. 1 was $24,415,480 and in 1929 it had reached the sum of $41,238,690.

Knott's efforts have always been for the advancement of the county as a whole, and particular-

Cannery To Save $49,000 Freight At Local Plant

Fillice and Perrelli Canning Company Inc., expects to save $49,000 in freight alone in the establishment of their new cannery now under construction at the Richmond waterfront a statement from the company offices stated yesterday. An analysis of the 1928 shipments of the company indicate the large saving to be made by the company.

In connection with their expansion plans the canning company announced yesterday that a $300,000 first mortgage bond issue would be offered to the public within a few days.

Henry J. Curry Estate Distributed

MARTINEZ, Jan. 27—The estate of Henry J. Curry, local mortician and formerly county coroner, was distributed today by Superior Judge A. B. McKenzie.

Mrs. Molly Curry, his widow, is sole heir to the estate which is valued at approximately $100,000.

POST TO BE FILLED BY GOVERNOR

Zebb Knott, for the last 15 years supervisor of this district yesterday placed his resignation in the hands of J. H. Wells, county clerk. The resignation was forwarded to Gov. C. C. Young at once and an appointment will be made today to fill the vacancy.

Governor Young's office at Sacramento yesterday admitted that notice of Knott's resignation had been received, but that definite action on the appointment of a successor had not been taken. It was admitted however that a well known Richmond man had been highly recommended and would probably receive the appointment.

If the rumored appointment is made it will require another appointment to fill the post left vacant by the newly appointed supervisor. This man has also been selected according to well founded rumors which have been prevalent since the resignation of Knott was first intimated several weeks ago. Should this man be appointed, which is expected, a third man would have to be ap-

SCHOOL BOARD SELLS HOUSE

With the applicaion for a permit to move a building from Forty-second street and Clinton avenue to Thirty-sixth street, between Nevin and Macdonald avenues, it was revealed that the grammar school board of trustees has sold the building to Carl Lind.

The moving permit was issued by City Building Inspector Arthur J. Hurley. H. G. Johnson will do the work.

The building, occupied a site near the Woodrow Wilson grammar school and was owned by the school board.

It was stated yesterday that the space occupied by the building will be used for an extension of the school playground.

$31,200 Pearl Theft Reported

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27.—UP—Miss Buelah Spiegelberg, of New York city, a guest at the Ambassador hotel, reported to police today that a pearl necklace valued at $31,200 had been stolen from her or lost.

Miss Spiegelberg said that the necklace, containing 202 graduated pearls, was in her handbag when she went to Beverly Hills Sunday for lunch, but that when she returned to her hotel it was missing from the bag. She was accompanied by a maid and a woman friend.

THE WOMAN OF IT

Women Protest Against Prohibition

FOUR hundred prominent New York women have just joined in a formal resolution against the passage of a State act to enforce Prohibition. Mrs. Archibald Roosevelt, daughter-in-law of the former President, was Chairman of the meeting and declared if "only right that women should assume the responsibility to-day and protest against any further legislation" of this nature.

Nothing could be more uncompromising—and more honest and accurate—than such clauses of this latest feminine challenge to Prohibition theory and practice as the following:

"Whereas, the Eighteenth Amendment violates the fundamental principles of the Constitution;

"Whereas, the demands to enforce it have resulted in hypocrisy, lawlessness, corruption and murder—"

Nor is woman's Anti-Prohibition attack limited to New York. Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, Chairman of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, announces that this important association is now organized in forty-six of the forty-eight States.

So serious, conservative and intelligent a woman thinker and writer as Ida Tarbell not only deplores Prohibition but asks if it is not forcing civil war.

WOMEN naturally are becoming aroused about Prohibition because of the ever-increasing testimony of the harm it is doing youth. As the Moderation League recently pointed out, apparently the largest increase of drunkenness "has taken place among those from fifteen to twenty-five years of age.

"The consensus was expressed by Jane Addams, a friend of Prohibition, when she wrote this year: 'We know indeed that the great number of young people are drinking at the present moment simply from a sense of bravado. Each generation looks for a method with which it may defy its elders. The present generation seems to have settled upon the obtaining and consumption of liquor.'"

But then, as still another woman, Rheta Childe Dorr, points out, in her most informative and interesting new book, "Drink: Coercion or Control?" the fact that the hip flask becomes the rage with young people and adolescents is one of the "commonplaces of every Prohibition debauch."

In Finland, which is now the world's other Prohibition country, Mrs. Dorr has found that, like many a young American, "the young Finlander is used to breaking the law and seeing others break it. He knows that as often as he takes a drink he breaks the law, but thinks it is a normal thing to do and has no sense of guilt in doing it."

BUTTRESSED by her own careful and impartial study of the drink question as it is answered, not only in Finland and the United States, but in Great Britain, Canada, Sweden and Norway, Mrs. Dorr has joined the steadily increasing number of really intelligent and conscientious women protestants against Prohibition, women who, as she says, are "patriotically determined to rescue this country from the morass of lies and hypocrisy, intemperance, crime, disorder, and contempt for all law into which Prohibition has plunged us."

Discussion, according to Senator Borah—and Congress certainly seems to be taking him at his word—"is the best way to help the President" in the enforcement of the law. A full share of the discussion certainly is being taken by American women!

The Ladies' Maids Might Apply

Among other repercussions of the Wall Street crash, report says, is the number of ladies' maids out of jobs, because the once-rich are economizing. When you notice by your sugar, salt and other foods that the pantry is damp, just set a dish of quicklime on the shelf, or if the clothing in the closet sometimes feels damp do likewise there, and there will be no further dampness.

Spots on stained lacquer ware can be removed by rubbing with a cloth moistened with salad oil.

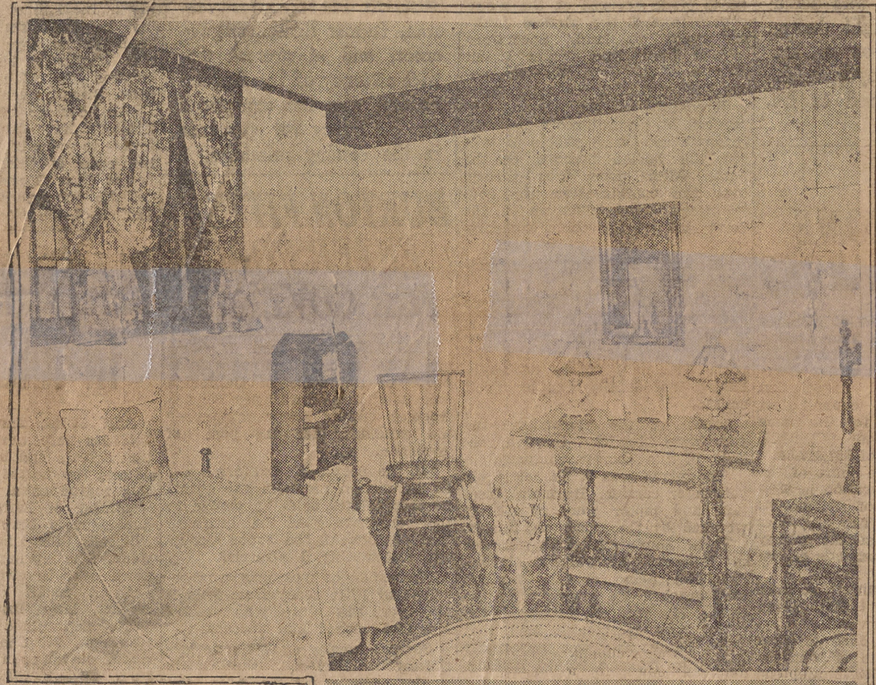
Two Schemes Wherein Old Furniture Makes Friends With a Modern Theme

By Alma Zaiss



GAY COLORS AND INTERESTING ACCESSORIES MAKE THIS CHILD'S ROOM ONE TO ENJOY AND REMEMBER FOR A LIFETIME.

Dear Editor,

Recently I bought a twin colonial bedroom set, comprising twin beds, highboy, one lowboy, a rush chair and night table. Will you please advise me how to complete the furnishings of this room? My boy of ten and little girl of five will share it. I do not know what to put on the low and highboy, also night table. What kind of scarfs, spreads, curtains, &c.?

I thank you for your advice.

Yours truly, (Mrs.) P. H.

Dear Miss Zaiss:

I am planning to redecorate my bedroom and would appreciate your advice on the color scheme and selection of the proper curtains, rug and small boudoir chair and bench covering; also accessories. I do not feel confident in my own ability as a home decorator and look forward to your advice.

The walls and woodwork at present are painted a light tan. I intend to have them repainted. The furniture is of dark mahogany with inlays of golden mahogany, in the Sheraton style. It is rather plain, and I believe it would harmonize well with the modern. On the beds I have taffeta spreads in a dark golden-peach shade, made very tailored. They are very pretty and I would like to keep them in the new scheme. I want to buy a new rug, boudoir chair and curtains.

I wish to thank you for your reply, which I know will greatly relieve me of my difficulty.

Respectfully yours,

(Mrs.) A. C. A.

WE ARE not at all certain that it is wise to give, through this department, illustrated and detailed answers to these two problems. For those who expect the most complete service should—without fail—inclose a floor plan, give room size, location of doors and windows and present furnishings.

However, in the hope that readers will see by actual demonstration how much more complete a service the department could render if supplied with floor plans and sufficient data, we shall treat the two letters together—and briefly. Please never hesitate to send in a rough diagram of your problem. Some day to encourage those who claim they "can't draw a straight line" we shall print a few plans as originally received—crude, amateurish, almost childlike—but descriptive enough to show how accurately they can guide us in making practical plans for rearrangement or redecoration.

Now we are off to the problem of the boy-and-girl room for which Mrs. H. has bought colonial furniture. In the absence of a floor plan, it is not possible to know whether our recommendation for beds on opposite sides of the room would be feasible. Nor do we know whether there is room for an additional easy chair and bookshelves. Such an arrangement of the beds would prove more restful for two children occupying one room, as it encourages sleep instead of conversation and allows the older child to read by the night light, placed so that it will not shine in the face of the younger child who may not wish to stay awake. For thorough comfort and enjoyment there should also be one easy chair in the room, if it can be included without crowding—and children always need a shelf for books and toys.

The two views of the room illustrated show a delightful and practical treatment for a child's room furnished in the colonial spirit. Although, architecturally speaking, the room is decidedly old-fashioned, a very modern plaid paper has been used on the walls, and this touch at once suggests up-to-dateness. The background of the child's room—the walls and draperies—should always be interesting, and to-day good decoration prescribes more subtle themes than the familiar Mother Goose figures of old.

There are dozens of smart modern papers and fabrics that are suitable for juvenile rooms, among them unique adaptations of floral motifs and modern scenic designs featuring circus figures, outdoor games and new inventions. Several of these are so discreetly developed that to the casual observer they have the effect of toile; but closer examination reveals a thoroughly modern treatment of the subject.

With a restrained paper such as that shown in the illustration, rather emphatic draperies may be used. With the second, however, plain curtains of linen or chintz bound with a contrasting color would prove a better choice.

It is hardly necessary to add that all fabrics used in the child's room should be washable. Rugs should be very simple and, preferably, also washable. The colonial furniture gives Mrs. H. a splendid excuse to use gay-colored rag rugs which can go into the laundry as often as need be for good housekeeping.

With the patterned walls and curtains covers for the two beds should be plain. Mercerized broadcloth in a bright harmonizing color piped with contrasting binding would be both inexpensive and effective. Pillows, likewise, will receive hard wear; some may be of plain broadcloth, sateen or chintz; others of patchwork, which could be either old-fashioned or very modern in design.

This furnishes the foundation for the children's room. The points of character which lend charm and individuality may be obtained through accessories. A study of the two pictures will answer Mrs. H.'s question as to what to put on the highboy and lowboy.

On the tall chest is a globe—delight of all inquiring minds; beside the screen of maps (another useful accessory) are the boy's snowshoes—the mark of an outdoor man. On the table (which in Mrs. H.'s scheme may be the lowboy) are cleverly designed student lamps, a clock for punctuality, a calendar to follow the days. On the wall above a good mirror is hung at a convenient height; below it the militant scrap basket encourages neatness. In the corner stands a bookcase with shelves low enough to reach and to keep in perpetual order. Simple, practical accessories—all of these things—but none the less decorative. We are sure that much inspiration for the Boy-and-Girl room can be gained from them.

Modern Walls in Sheraton Scheme

FOR Mrs. A.'s bedroom—the second problem — the recommendations are staged against another modern background. She is quite right in assuming that, by reason of its simplicity, her Sheraton furniture in two tones of mahogany will lend itself to a discreetly modern theme. We can think of several, each one of them charming.

Since Mrs. A wishes to retain her spread of dark peach-gold taffeta, a plain bronze or henna rug would be good for the new floor covering. And instead of painted walls we would prefer a modern paper. With the two colors mentioned a background of pale aquamarine blue with a modern leaf and flower pattern in peach and brown tones would be very effective. A second pattern that comes to mind also has a greenish background with a modern flower pattern in pink and yellow tones. A third paper with a simple pine branch design comes in either aquamarine or peach. Another good pattern for this room has a background of soft greenish blue with a white flower design which, although modern in treatment, carries a haunting reminder of Chippendale.

With these first two walls a certain printed voile having a tan ground with a modernistic flower and leaf design in peach and blue-green would be most harmonious at the windows, and over-curtains could be of plain taffeta. With the third and fourth papers we might use voile glass curtains repeating the gold or peach colors in the room and overcurtains of striped taffeta in blue-green, henna, gold, peach. For all backgrounds mentioned the boudoir chair could be covered with modern fabric having a self-toned design in greenish blue much darker than the walls, and the bench could repeat the color of the bedspread.

If painted walls are preferred, however, they may be tinted pale aquamarine or peach—in which case figured voile curtains and figured upholstering would be effective. A conservative modern mirror could be used in Mrs. A.'s room; pillows and toilet accessories may also suggest the modern theme, but should be carefully chosen, for Sheraton furniture is essentially dainty and refined in character and does not affiliate with flamboyant color and pattern.

A DISH A DAY

The good qualities of a half ham compare favorably with those of the whole ham. A quality ham, cured to perfection, is good to the last bit; the same is true of the fresh ham.

NANCY DORRIS

Considering that the cured ham is the upper part of the hing leg of the pork, one-half contains more bone than the other, and the centre cuts, more meaty than either end, are the choicest.

Ham butts come from the large ends of the ham and the shank from the lower. The latter, being more bony, can be bought cheaper than the butt end and decidedly below the price asked for centre cuts. The best of the shank end can be sliced for broiling and the rest boiled to form a tempting winter dinner meat. The butts are favored for baking.

As curing tends to harden the fibres of the meat, long, thorough cooking is imperative. Half hams weigh from four to six pounds, and the ends sometimes offered by butchers three to three and one-half pounds. For a small family the half or less answers the need for a small quantity. Although cured ham does keep well, not every kitchenette provides storage space sufficient to take care of large purchases.

The half ham boiled and served with vegetables makes a one piece main course similar to the New England boiled dinner.

HAM AND VEGETABLES

One shank end of ham
Boiling water to cover well
One onion sliced
Handful of celery tops
Boiling time: One hour
One head of cabbage
Five potatoes
Five onions
Three small turnips
Three carrots, medium
Boiling time: thirty minutes
Servings: five or six.

Wipe the shank end of the ham with a damp cloth and place in a large kettle; cover well with boiling water and add the sliced onion and minced celery tops. Cover and bring to a boil; then reduce the heat and cook gently for one hour. The ham should be nearly ready to serve by this time.

Prepare the vegetables: Peel the potatoes, onions and turnips, wash the carrots and cabbage well. Leave the potatoes and onions whole; cut the carrots and turnips into quarters and the cabbage into fifths. Place the turnips, onions and carrots in the ham kettle and cook fifteen minutes, then add the cabbage fifths and the potatoes and cook about twenty to thirty minutes longer, or until the vegetables are deliciously tender.

Remove the ham to a large serving platter and surround with the vegetables, placed according to variety. In removing the vegetables care should be exercised to keep them whole. Some relish may be served with the platter, or a gravy made from the kettle liquid thickened slightly.

Pineapple, celery and romaine salad companions the ham platter to the Queen's taste, and the sweet course may be velvet cream pie and coffee.

The Farmer's Advice

By Alfalfa Smith

IF I took you into an office where there was a partition between it and another office and two men, an old one and a young one, were talking on the other side, how could you tell which was the old man and which was the young? Their voices, we assume, would not reveal the answer.

I will tell you this so that it may help you in case you are slipping toward the sunset of life.

The old man would talk about the PAST, while the younger would be talking about the FUTURE.

Men want hope, faith and encouragement around them and that is why they demand young men to help them.

To keep young, look into the future more. Keep up the pleasures and pastimes which helped you in your youth, even if you have to join a dancing class.

A keen psychologist says the reason the young avoid old people is because they are always "bossy" and perhaps that is why employers do not like old people—they may want to boss and that is always distasteful.

To be young—THINK YOUNG.

In Case of Accident

If you happen to come in close contact with a varnished surface and lint from your clothing sticks to it, just rub it first with turpentine then with a cloth moistened with linseed oil and rub well with both applications.

TO ALL UNCLE SAMMY'S NEPHEWS

GOVERNMENT Bulletin 243966-B.

Well, folks, do you know what your Government has done for you now? A year and a half ago it got out a nice new formula that put two gallons of gasoline in every hundred of industrial alcohol to make it undrinkable. But the American public, with its genius for surmounting obstacles, soon got used to this gasoline taste. In fact, the petroleum tang became so popular with the drinking masses that bootleggers were charging $10 a case extra for dropping in ethyl gasoline instead of the ordinary fuel.

But inasmuch as it is the policy of the Government to step in when the people are enjoying themselves, this gasoline formula is going to be changed. So on and after this day and date the Government will give you formula 44-A, consisting of four gallons of wood alcohol in every batch of the drinkable stuff. Everybody knows what wood alcohol is. It is always followed by a wooden chaser—with silver handles. The best is none too good for the Government's citizens.

This new Government formula will force bootleggers to do three times as much "cooking" to get the wood alcohol out. And in case the alcohol chef doesn't cook your alcohol enough and serves it under-done, you know what you can do. You can roll over and die. You can't blame the Government for that.

Mr. Lowman of the Prohibition Department is the jolly little nephew of Uncle Sam who thought of putting formula 44-A back in force. Mr. Lowman is the lively gentleman who would have given marmanship medals to Prohibition sleuths who killed the father of a picknicking family on the Minnesota border last year. Mr. Lowman is also the jolly Government servant who discovered there wasn't anything wrong in coast guards killing three crew men of the Black Duck with machine guns. There is nothing in the law that says Uncle Sam's employees can't go Black Duck shooting so long as it's in season.

So Mr. Lowman has brought out the wood alcohol formula as a pleasant New Year's surprise. And beginning about next Wednesday, there ought to be a nice death list of folks killed by poison hooch, but if it doesn't kill them it will knock them blind. The foremost results are hoped for, however, and if enough people aren't killed by wood alky, the formula will be increased.

And those are Uncle Sam's glad tidings of stricter enforcement. By June it is hoped to kill off all the scofflaws, but in case a few drinkers are still living then, your Government is equal to the task. It can always get out another stiffer formula—say a pound of cyanide potassium to every ten gallons of industrial alcohol. Or maybe a shovelful of bichloride of mercury in every drum. With toy drums for the little folks. That ought to put a stop to this drinking nonsense.

So you can see what the Government is doing for you folks. Always on the job. If at first you don't succeed with gasoline, try, try again with wood alcohol. That's our motto. And we've got lots of other nice poisons up our sleeve. Should formula 44-A fail to work this time, we will tackle the hard drinking population on the other flank. We will charge all ginger ale and mineral water with poison gas. Folks, you can't win when the Government is on the alert like that. This is Government Bulletin 243966-B signing off.

YOUR LOVING, UNCLE SAM.

RICHMOND GROUP AT DISTRICT MEET OF P. T. A.

A number of Richmond women attended the session of the Sixteenth District of P.-T.-A. held at the Alameda high school yesterday.

The meeting opened with luncheon being served in the school cafeteria. Mrs. William Reynolds, president of the district then took charge of the meeting.

The council voted a sum of $25 for a life membership for Mrs. M. Whitman, first president of the old second district of P.-T.-A. which is now the Sixteenth district. The money will be turned over to the student aid fund.

The Englebright bill, now before congress, which provides for the conservation of our national forests was unanimously endorsed by the council.

M. E. Paton, principal of the Alameda school was one of the speakers on the program. He declared that the school feels that the P. T. A. was part of the faculty and that if the movement were dropped, it would set the schools back 20 years.

Zinnie Kider, of Berkeley, in charge of the art section, addressed the group on art in the schools. She declared that art courses seek for self expression of the pupils.

Creative music is also sought, according to Mrs. Young of Berkeley, who addressed the group on music study. Through the use of crude musical instruments, music teachers in the school seek to teach children to play and love music.

It was announced that the state convention of P. T. A. will be held in Riverside on May 5.

Those attending the meeting from Richmond included Mrs. Gunnar Soderblom, president of the Richmond council of P. T. A. Mrs. C. R. Blake, past president; Mrs. W. W. Scott and Mrs. Billy Brown. Mrs. W. H. Evans of El Cerrito also attended the meeting.

NOBLE GRANDS PLAN WHIST SERIES HERE

A series of whist parties to be held in the Woodmen hall each Tuesday afternoon for five weeks were planned at a meeting of the Past Noble Grand's association in the Odd Fellow hall last night.

The series will start next Tuesday under the direction of Mrs. Hazel Rhodas. She will be assisted by an able committee.

Mrs. Eliza Cozby was installed as chaplain of the association at last night's meeting. Mrs. Joella Bonham acted as installing officer.

A banquet prepared under the direction of Mrs. Cozby and Mrs. Mae Solomon, was served at the conclusion of the meeting.

ECLIPSE LODGE IN PLANS FOR BIG CARNIVAL

A committee to work in conjunction with C. C. Encampment of Odd Fellows and Richmond and Zephyr Rebekah lodges for a big indoor carnival, was appointed at a meeting of the Eclipse Odd eFllows lodge in the Odd Fellow hall last night.

The committee consists of Frank Wison, Grant Howard and J. DePathe.

First degree was conferred last night, and plans were made for the conferring of the second degree next Monday night.

Joe Turner was appointed to work on the social committee for the term.

HOME NURSING COURSE WILL OPEN TOMORROW

Final preparations have been made for the first of a series of home nusing courses to be held here under the auspices of the Richmond Council of P. T. A. The first class will be held here tomorrow afternoon at the Lincoln school.

The first lecture, which will be delivered by Mrs. Oline Shafer Bernstein, a Red Cross nurse from Oakland, will be entitled "Indications of Sickness." She will show how beds can be made with or without the patient and will demonstrate the use of the thermometer in the sick room.

She will also lead a roundtable discussion and will answer questions.

Mrs. R. L. Whatron, who is in charge of the classes, declared yesterday that although the first course will be held in Room 8, it is probable that the meeting place will be changed, due to the fact that there is such a large number of entrants.

The courses will be held for six weeks.

THE HEARTLESS SHADOW that threatens the modern figure

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence, if you would maintain the modern figure of fashion

Avoid the snags along the common-sense path to fitness and fashion. Don't let over-indulgence deprive you of the tantalizing contour of the modern figure. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Eat healthfully but not immoderately—when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence, if you would maintain the graceful, modern figure with its captivating curves.

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

"It's toasted"

*Be Moderate!... Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

GLORIA VOICE DEBUT HERE TODAY

Gloria Swanson's voice, object of greater anticipation among motion picture fans than any other voice in filmdom, is heard for the first time in "The Trespasser" her latest United Artists picture.

Miss Swanson both sings and talks in this new opus.

Her spoken lines are the more effective because "The Trespasser" is a play of modern life constructed to meet the requirements of the new screen medium rather than a story designed for a silent picture, into which dialogue has been injected.

Her singing likewise is expected to be more highly appreciated because the two songs she offers interpret the moods of the story and sustain its tempo, instead of disrupting its trend of thought.

In addition to serving as the medium of her vocal debut "The Trespasser" presents Miss Swanson once again as a woman of fashion with a wardrobe of gowns wraps and negligees which are ultra modern in every detail.

"The Trespasser," which will be the attraction at the Fox-California theater beginning today is a drama of the moment. Its setting is Chicago; its environment the 'smart set.' And through its intimate study of a girl who becomes a trespasser in this restricted social sphere and in the lives of its people, the story delves into vital affairs of life.

Miss Swanson in her portrayal of "Marion Donnell" is supported by established players of both stage and screen. The leading man is Robert Ames who has been extremely popular on Broadway. He portrays "Jack Merrick" whose romance with "Marion Donnel" indelibly stamps her as "The Trespasser."

Traffic Officer Abandons Cycle To Take Suspect

Lester Eaton, state traffic officer proved himself as well adapted to running as to riding a motorcycle, and after a long chase yesterday captured Lee G. McCoy of Kearney and Market street Richmond.

Eaton first chased McCoy several blocks on his motorcycle. Finally McCoy abandoned his car and started on foot, running across lots in a futile effort to escape from Eaton.

McCoy appeared before Justice of the Peace A. A. Alstrom, and was fined $25 on a charge of driving a car without due caution.

Overcoat Theft Nets Jail Term

Pleading guilty to the theft of an overcoat from W. H. Shaw, a salesman of 1519 High street Alameda, Ralph Kanepper was sentenced to serve 90 days in the county jail yesterday by Police Judge C. A. Odell.

Kanepper alleged to have stolen the coat from Shaw's car, was recognized wearing the overcoat by Shaw shortly after.

A set of gauges in the pockets of the overcoat were recovered after William Widemann, Kanepper's companion confessed to selling them to a garage man for 30 cents.

Wideman was given a 60 day jail sentence with commitment withheld.

Washington P.-T.-A. May Sponsor New Boy Scout Troop

Belief that the Washington P.-T.-A. will sponsor a Boy Scout troop in west Richmoid was expressed yesterday following a mass meeting of representatives of women's clubs at the meeting of the West Side Improvement club.

Robert F. Cox, Richmond Scout executive was at the meeting and explained the work of the Boy Scouts and how a troop is sponsored.

If the P.-T.-A. sponsors the troop, a number of men will be invited to join the association in order that they may serve on the troop committee.

Troop No. 1 was organized on the west side 13 years ago and was later disbanded. Cox stated yesterday that if the new troop is organized, it will be designated as Troop No. 1.

More than 75 persons attended the meeting, which was held in the Trinity Guild hall.

DELEGATES TO NAVY MEET WRANGLE

LONDON, Jan. 27.— UP— What was scheduled as a vital meeting of the "Big Five" today, in which the chief naval delegates were to agree on conference procedure, turned into a weary three hour wrangle which sent Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson to bed before dinner tonight, dog-tired.

One delegate described the session held at 10 Downing street as "exhaustive and exhausting," and efforts to learn exactly what happened might be described the same way.

After conflicting statements and denials were sifted, little was left except the calling of a further "Big Five" session Tuesday in St. James' palace, where all such meetings will be held in the future, and the possibility of a full meeting of the delegates some time this week. Meantime the delegations will continue to frame suggestions for an agenda.

Britain Halts Ships

Britain action in finally abandoning construction of two 10,000 ton cruisers, the Surrey and North Cumberland, was an outstanding event of the day. Suspension of work on the two vessels was ordered when the Kellogg pact was proclaimed, and cancellation of construction indicates, as a foreign office spokesman said, "a healthy hope that the conference is going to do something."

Incidentally, non-construction of the cruisers is understood to mean a saving of about $21,800,000 in the forthcoming British naval estimates.

Todays discussion revolved about which questions should be discussed first—or as one Frenchman said, "which would come first, the hen or the egg."

Press Conference

An afternoon press conference at St. Jame's developed that the French, British and Italian delegations had enjoyed a nice tea party in Downing street, but that at the "Big Five" meeting the submarine and merchant ship issues were not discussed.

Earlier there had been reports that the Japanese submitted the question of arming merchant ships among written suggestions for the Agenda. The Evening News even said Reijiro Wakatsuki, chief Japanese delegate, told the other chiefs a clause should be drawn forbidding any nation to build merchant ships capable of mounting guns greater than 6-inch.

Report Denied

Secretary Stimson authorized denial of a report that the big five had agreed to drop the subject of sumbarine abolition. A British foreign office spokesman disclosed that the Mediterranean non-aggression pact suggested by France was not listed among the conference topics submitted by Secretary General Sir Maurice Hankey for the delegations' approval.

At the meeting Tuesday the big five will submit agenda items for compilation in a general list, according to alphabetical order of the countries participating. The agenda will be made up from this general list and will be submitted to each delegation for approval.

First Water For New Reservoir

MARTINEZ, Jan. 27.—First water from the San Joaquin river at Mallard slough was pumped into the Chenery reservoir today.

It is estimated that the reservoir, the million dollar project of the California Water Service corporation, will be filled to its capacity of 1,000,000 gallons within the next two weeks. Pumping will be continued until the reservoir is at its capacity.

Although the main pumping plant at Mallard Slough has not yet been constructed, an auxiliary pumping apparatus is doing the work of the main plant. A contract for the construction will be announced in a few days.

The Central Construction company of Oakland has started work on the filteration plant at the reservoir which will handle 4,000,000 gallons of water daily. It is expected that the plant will be completed in April.

BEST SCOUT TO BE SELECTED IN RICHMOND

An Eagle Boy Scout from the Richmond troops will be named to enter the contest sponsored by bay region Boy Scouts to select the seven best Boy Scouts.

R. F. Cox, local Scout executive, stated yesterday that last year Richmond was not represented in the contest. This year, however, an attempt will be made to have this city represented.

Each Scout council will select an Eagle Scout of high qualification to travel through the Rocky Mountain National Park chain this summer.

Names of the "best scouts" will be announced before April 15.

The will be required to serve as a Scout naturalist for the park service and must agree to actively serve Scouting for at least one year after this service.

Ansel F. Hall, chief naturalist for the national park service is in charge of the party and will conduct the expedition.

Each Scout selected must be 15 years of age and must be an Eagle Scout before June 7, 1930. He must have an unquestioned rating as a Scout and be experienced in woodcraft.

States Scores In Trial Of Texas Jurist

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 27.—UP—F. R. McNaughton a friend of Former Judge John Brady pointed to a long-bladed knife on the counsel table in court here late today and said it was the weapon he took from the jurist as Brady leaned over the bleeding body of Lehlia Highsmith on the night of Nov. 9.

The girl, a court stenographer, was stabbed to death on the sidewalk in front of her Austin apartment.

"I heard a scream and looked out," Mcnaughton said. "I saw Miss Highsmith either lying on the ground or falling.

"Judge Brady was leaning over her.

Mcnaughton hurried out to the scene.

"I reached down and felt of Miss Highsmith. She had blood on her left arm.

"Then I took the knife out of Judge Brady's hand."

Allegation that he had heard Judge Brady threaten the life of Miss Highsmith was made by K. H. McFarland of Burnett, Tex., a chance visitor to the girl's rooming house on the night of the killing.

McFarland said he came to the place intending to stay there over night and saw the judge and Miss Highsmith talking on the sidewalk.

spin at 1000 feet, and crashed onto the plain. I think this is shown clearly by the altimeter reading and the fact that the throttle was wide open."

LITTLE HOPE HELD FOR TWO FLIERS

NOME, Alaska, Jan. 27—(U.P.)—Many miraculous escapes from death by Lieut. Carl Ben Eielson, pioneer aviator of Alaska, tonight furnished the only foundation for hopes that he might have survived the crash of his plane in the desolate region of northern Siberia.

Searchers had virtually determined that Eielson and his mechanic, Earl Borland, could not have been trapped in the wreckage of their craft, according to reports here from Cape North, Siberia.

Scattered parts of the demolished plane were found 55 miles south of Cape Town by two pilots who had been comrades of Eielson. They were Joe Crosson and Fred Gillam.

Survey Made

A careful survey failed to disclose any information of what might have happened to the two long missing passengers. Radio advices from Cape North said the food supply in the cabin of the craft had not been used.

Since the heavy parts of the plane did not sink into the deep snow, veterans of the northland expressed beliefs that bodies of the two men would not have been buried very deep if they had perished.

Therefore there was a great deal of conjecture following finding of the wreckage. Among the possibilities were that Eielson and Borland had jumped from the plane before it plunged to the ground or had walked to the cabin of a trapper and were waiting for winter to end before breaking their way out.

Several Escapes

Several times in his long career as an explorer and edventurer around the Arctic Circle Eielson has been missing for long periods and has returned with stories of finding shelter in a trapper's cabin.

Only a short time before his last disappearance he spent a month with a trapper near Cape North and when stormy weather moderated he came back to Nome in good health.

Little credence was placed in a written statement by Sergel Kamanev, head of the Soviet Arctic commission at Moscow, that the wreckage found might not have been from Eielson's plane.

Seen Plane

Crosson and Gillam have often seen Eielson's plane and they knew all marks of identification on it.

Eielson had vanished in a thick fog while flying from Nome to assist persons on the ice-locked schooner Nanuk, which is off Cape North.

Crosson reported he evidently went off his course in the fog and went south of the Nanuk. He also found indication that the plane had hit at full speed, leaving the deductions that Eielson had jumped from it earlier or had not known he was so low. Parts of the wreckage were scattered oven an area of 100 feet.

Missing Long

The rescue flyers went to Cape North from here about a month ago. They were making their eighth flight in search of Eielson from that point when they sighted the wreckage. Later they departed in dog sleds to study the plane carefully.

Eielson and Borland have been missing since Nov. 9. Previously they had brought out six sailors marooned on the Nanuk. Then they had started back to rescue the captain, his daughter, and the remainder of the crew.

FATHERS OF FLIERS GIVE UP HOPES

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 27—(U.P.)—An epic of heroism in the Siberian Arctic approached an anti-climax tonight when dog teams mushed over the snow covered tundra there to a wrecked airplane in search of the bodies of two of the far north's most noted airmen.

Upon telling of the finding of the wrecked ship after two months of the most arduous search, radio advices here said there was little possibility of finding the gallant Carl Ben Eielson and his intrepid mechanic, Earl Borland, alive.

Wreckage of the plane was sighted in the sparkling snow 90 miles south of the ice-bound fur ship, Nanuk, which Eielson and Borland had gone to aid. Search pilots Joe Crosson and Fred Gillam reported that they landed near the wreck and hunted a short time for the missing fliers.

Ship Smashed

The ship was smashed completely, they said, with wreckage scattered for 100 feet around. The food supply was untouched. It was feared that Eielson and Borland would be found frozen to death in the shifting snow banks nearby.

Crosson and Gillam returned to the Nanuk, which has been the base for the past two months in the almost hopeless search. Dog teams were started immediately to the scene of the wreck, 90 miles south of the boat and about 12 miles in from the ice bound shore.

So treacherous was the route that there was little hope of any further definite word from rescuers for several days.

Lights Out

The father and mother of Borland extinguished the lights of a Christmas tree in their home here after keeping them burning for weeks in belief that their son would be found. The elder Borland said they had given up all hope of seeing Earl alive.

In Hatton, N. D., the aged father of Eielson said he "guessed there wasn't any hope left."

When the Nanuk, loaded with $1,000,000 worth of furs, reported she was ice bound near Cape North last November and in desperate need of aid, Eielson and Borland left Teller, Alaska, with food and fuel. They made one successful trip, took on furs and passengers, and then returned for more. They flew out of Teller in a blizzard and disappeared.

Soviets Aid

The Russian Soviet government sent aviators and an ice cutter to aid in the search, while several of Alaska's best known fliers hurried to the Nanuk to take up the search.

Eielson achieved his greatest fame when he flew with Sir Hubert Wilkins, noted explorer, over the Arctic from Point Barrows to Spitzbergen in April, 1928. Later in the same year Eielson, Crosson and Borland accompanied Wilkins to the south polar seas where they made extensive flights from a base at Deception Island.

WETS BARRED FROM DRY POSTS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—UP—Habitual drinkers and anti-prohibitionists were barred from federal liquor prosecution posts by Attorney General Mitchell today.

Mitchell disclosed his new rule which is being enforced by investigations of the personal habits of candidates for justice department posts to Congress today. The announcement was the climax of Mitchell's effort to convince Congress that his department should be given entire control of prohibition enforcement part of which is now in the treasury.

Mitchell who is a Minnesota Democrat made public a letter he wrote January 20 to an unnamed person, stating in part:

Rule Told

"I have not made any hard and fast rule on the subject, and there are many matters respecting a man's ability and personal qualifications to be considered but I believe that no man who makes a practice of drinking intoxicating liquor or who has definite and pronounced views in opposition to prohibition belongs during this administration in any post having directly to do with the prosecuton of cases under the national prohibition act."

"It seems to me," he added, "that such men had better seek positions in some other branch of the government or a private occupation."

Mitchell also defended the right of officials to have accurate information about the personal habits and the prohibition opinions of the men under them. The letter discussed an inquiry which Mitchell ordered into the qualifications of a candidate for U. S. marshal.

Scores Drinking

"Men in such posts, marshals U. S. attorneys and assstant U. S. attorneys should not drink under any circumstances," Mitchell said. Marshals have direct custody today of seized liquor, he remarked. Wets in such positions would have a "demoralizing effect on the whole machinery of justice," he said.

The letter came on the heels of a new spread of the prohibition controversy to Senate floor, where Senator Wheeler, dry Democrat, charged that his state, Montana, was being punished for electing two Democratic senators by having an unfit man sent there by the federal enforcement officials. He referred to John F. C. Herbert, prohibition administrator recently transferred west from Baltimore. Senator Borah of Idaho also under Herbert's new district said he had seen a report on Herbert, which if true, indicated he ought to be "transferred clear out of the country." Wheeler charged prohibition was being made a political football.

Mitchell appeared before the house expenditures committee today pleading for the Williamson bill to transfer prohibition raiding activities from the treasury to the justice department. He assured the committee that his department went in only for lawful methods of enforcement, "and always has."

On the Senate floor, Wheeler apparently took arvantage of this remark to discuss Attorney General Daughterty's regime, and the "grafting" of the late Ess Smith during the "scandals" period.

Chairman Oeming of the civil service commission followed Mitchell before the House committee, and demanded that the transfer bill be amended to prohibit civil servce ineligibles from justice department prohibition posts. He said that under the measure as planned, the attorney general could waive civil service in many posts. He proposed also that assistant prohibition directors be placed under civil service.

Bad Babies Cast Found Guilty By Los Angeles Jury

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27.—UP—Eight members of the cast of the stage play "Bad Babies" were convicted of presenting an obscene show by a municipal court jury which deliberated for five hours today.

By the verdict, Jobyna Ralston the star, and her seven co-defendants were automatically subjected to a maximum penalty of $1500 fine and 18 months in jail. Sentencing was continued until Wednesday to remain at liberty under $500 bond. "Bad Babies" is a play of the love and crime of a high school crowd.

KEY SYSTEM HIT BY SUIT

OAKLAND, Jan. 27.—UP—Suit to foreclose $10,000,000 mortgage was brought against the Key System Transit company by the Oakland bank here today.

The action claimed that $6,899,000 of the amount is due and interest amounts to $2855.

Demand was made in the suit that all or part of the Transit company's property be sold and that the company be denied a right to redeem its holdings.

According to attorneys for the bank, the suit constitutes a necessary legal step toward another reorganization of the company, plans for which are already completed.

The request to prevent redemption of the system is made to prevent use of the "year of grace" allowed by law for such actions, the attorney said.

The mortgage it is understood underlies a bond issue floated by the Key System in 1923 as part of a reorganization scheme by which previous mortgages were refunded.

The Key System Transit company the American Trust company, Mrs. Myrtle Aydelott and eight "Does" are named as defendants in the foreclosure suit. It is said that the unidentified people are those having claims against the company. The bank is represented by the firm of McKee, Tasheira and Wahrhaftig.

CAGE PLAYERS PRESENTED AWARDS

Garfinkle's cagers, champions of the A division of the city league, and Mammy's Place, victors of the B division, were presented with gold basketballs by J. Thomas and Harry Botger, respectively, last night in the Richmond Union high school gymnasium.

The members of the Garfinkle squad who received the awards were: Ernie Barbieri, Larry Gillan, Dave Flynn, Bill Millicevich, George Gordon, Walter Gordon, Jack Lemkuhl and Ralph Lee.

The Mammy's Place athletes who received gold basketballs were: Charley Cecil, manager; "Bezl" Marcus, Joe Oishi, Leo Sassone, George Weeks, Henry Page, L. Correia, Ogden Arnold, and Pat O'Connell.

Both Thomas and Botger were introduced to the record gallery by W. L. "Doc" Seawright, director of the city league.

The gold basketballs were purpurchased out of the league funds. These awards have been given each year to the champions of the city league, and they are retained by their owners.

The Garfinkle warriors will meet the Mammy's Place champions of the B division Thursday at the Richmond Union high school gymnasium in the first of a series of playoffs for the league title. Both squads will meet again Monday evening, and, if a third game is required it will be played Feb. 6.

Both titled teams have had a whirlwind season, undoubtedly establishing their superiority in the league throughout the entire season. Garfinkle's were conquered only once, when they lost a fiercely fought game to the Furrer quintet. Mammy's Place went thru the season without once suffering defeat.

As preliminary attractions on Thursday night, the Oleum loop squad will clash with Breuner's five of Oakland at 7 o'clock and a girls' squad from Oleum will tangle with Breuner's girl athletes at 8 o'clock. The Garfinkle-Mammy's Place contest will start at 9 o'clock.

There will also be two fast preliminaries on Monday night's card. The Oleum boys will meet the City of Hayward aggregation at 7 o'clock, while the Oleum girls will clash with the Richmond Y. L. I. outfit at 8 o'clock. These games will also be followed at 9 o'clock by the main contest of the evening.

Local Soccer Team Defeats Hayward 4 to 1

A decisive 4 to 1 victory was gained by the Richmond soccerites over the Hayward eleven Sunday at San Pablo park.

The local boys made their best showing of the season Sunday, running wild through the Hayward defense. The first half was fairly close and ended with Richmond on the heavy end of a 2 to 1 score. The Richmond athletes then decided to have a little practice in netting the ball with the result that the score stood 4 to 1 in favor of the local club at the final whistle.

All four counters gained by Richmond were made by Doug Brain, who had a big day at center. Brain was constantly fed by his teammates, and made the best of all his opportunities. Chambers and O'Neil, new comers to the ranks of the Richmond Soccer club, played a neat game against the Haywardites.

If Richmond maintains its high standard set in Sunday's battle, there ought to be a pretty good chance of Richmond getting in on the final money in the Eastbay Junior Soccer league.

The local lineup Sunday was as follows:

Loughran Will Not Spar With Jack Sharkey

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 27.—UP—"Talk of me serving as a sparring partner for Jack Sharkey is ridiculous," Tommy Loughran, retired lightweight champion said today.

Both Loughran and his manager Joe Smith denied reports from Miami that Sharkey's managers had requested Tommy to spar with Sharkey. Loughran is scheduled to appear on the same card with the Sharkey-Scott bout at Miami, Feb. 27. He will meet Pierre Charles of Belgium.

BRITISH WANT SCOTT FIGHT FOR TITLE

By FRANK GETTY

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—UP—It's fists across the sea," now. We mean to say, our British cousins are taking this little business trip of Phil Scott's quite seriously.

The British boxing board of control today made a formal demand upon the N. B. A. that the Scott-Sharkey bout at Miami a month hence be declared officially as for the world's heavyweight championship.

This is rather pathetic because the National Boxing association has nothing to do with the Miami affair, nor with the heavyweight championship for that matter.

Very Quaint

Appealing to the N. B. A. in this instance is rather like asking a girl's parents for her hand without consulting her in the matter. It's quaint.

The British asserts that Max Schmeling "ran out" on a match with their Philip last fall. They assert that Maxie is not even the heavyweight champion "of his own home town," whereas Philip is monarch of all the Britons.

Trevor Wignall, British boxing expert, waxes indignant on the subject.

The Go?

"Persons behind Schmeling attempted to convince people that the world's championship is not at stake when Scott and Sharkey meet," Wignall wrote recently. "Anything sillier even in professional pugilism has not been invented for some time."

Which just goes to show what a variable thing is opinion. Now in this country we feel that anything sillier 'even in professional pugilism' than the idea of Phil Scott fighting for the championship couldn't be invented.

Athen Quintet Wins Another

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 27.—UP—Athens club of Oakland only undefeated basketball team in the San Francisco bay region this season defeated Rossi Florists of San Francisco 38 to 22 here tonight. Score at half time was 17 to 11 in Athens favor.

Stars for the victors were Verne Corbin, Del Manion and Art Ford.

Yanks Release Player To Stars

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—UP—The New York Yankees today released third baseman Mike Gazella outright to the Hollywood Pacific Coast league club. Gazella is returning to baseball after a year in the stock and bond business in Wall street.

HIGH QUINTETS, BERKELEY TO PLAY TODAY

Refreshed by their victories over Emeryville high school last week, the Richmond Union high school varsity and B cagers will enter the fray this afternoon against the Berkeley high school Yellowjackets at the Berkeley high school gymnasium.

The local cagers believe that their string of defeats at the beginning of the season was merely a temporary nervousness, and they are now fairly confident that they will certainly not be submerged by the famed onslaught of the Yellowjackets today.

Last years 22 to 12 victory of the Richmondites over the Berkeleyans tends to make the local boys a bit more confident. In the two preceding years each school boasted a victory. Such interschool rivalry promises a fast game in the Berkeley high school gymnasium today.

Outboard Motor Club Planned By Richmond Fans

A group of local outboard motor boating enthusiasts will attempt to organize a Richmond Outboard Motor club Sunday morning. Those interested in the association will gather at the Richmond Navigation company's wharf at the foot of Third street.

Included among the local group of boating enthusiasts who are planning to organize the club are: Dr. Francis J. Kent, Carol Marshall, R. E. Dougall and George Lauritzen.

Oregon Quintet Beats Huskies

CORVALIS, Jan. 27—(U.P.)—Oregon State stopped Washington's march to the championship of the northern division of the Pacific coast intercollegiate basketball title by defeating the Huskies 34 to 32 here tonight.

The game was rough throughout and the score was tied ten different times. Buck Grayson, Orange forward led Oregon's attack with several brilliant one-hand field goals. The teams play here again Tuesday night.

Michigan Cagers Defeat Minnesota

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Jan. 27—(U.P.)—The University of Michigan basketball team defeated Minnesota 26 to 13 here tonight in one of the slowest games played in Michigan's gymnasium this season.

What Ho! 'Twas Played, Motors Fans Rejoicing

All is dark and dreary in the town of San Pablo and wailing is heard in the market place, for in spite of brave and valiant fighting, its warriors of the diamond returned humbled by a 5 to 3 defeat at the hands of the rejoicing Thomas Motors Sunday.

Alas and more woe! The coffers of the San Pablo club are bare and empty, while those of the Motors are full to overflowing. Considerably more than the honor of winning was at stake in Sunday's battle, in fact the entire gate receipts. No wonder that skies seem rather gray for the citizens of San Pablo.

Sunday's clash started off in brilliant fashion for San Pablo who found Campana for a double and a homer during the first inning. Kelley was the hero who circled the bases, bringing Silva in ahead of him. Manager Thomas of the Motors began scanning his players' bench after these unfortunate events and picked out Doyle Taylor as his last chance of snatching victory from defeat, which young Taylor did very capably. Not a single hit or run was allowed by Taylor during the next six and a half innings. Eight San Pablans slashed the air in vain after Taylor's accession of the pitchers glove.

The Motors were not be beaten at the slugging game, and proceeded to tie the San Pablans in their half of the first. The credit for these two counters was due Figuerido, Borreani, and Smaker. During the next period, the Motors took a one run lead, aided by hits from Labetich, Whetzler and Taylor.

Two counters were scored in the fourth by the Studebakers, while the San Pablans brought in one more run in the seventh period. This completed the scoring for the day.

Following Sunday's contest, it was found that Campana was suffering from a boken bone in his right hand, caused by a terrific drive by Silva in the first inning.

ALL STAR CAGE TEAM NAMED HERE

A fast All-Star aggregation has been chosen from the Richmond city cage league by authorities to meet several eastbay squads during the coming month. The members of this representative local team are: O. Muth, E. Barbieri, H. Bonham, J. Baldwin, A. Muth, A. Huzefka, A. Nelson, C. Tula and R. Lee.

The Richmond stars will tangle with the Crockett athletes Feb. 5 at Crockett. They will meet the Petaluma Spartans at Petaluma Feb. 8 and Crockett will play a return game against Richmond in the Richmond Union high school gymnasium Feb. 10. Petaluma will meet the local squad here Feb. 13 and the San Mateo boys will visit Richmond Feb. 17, while the locals will travel to San Mateo on Feb. 20.

The city league authorities are also planning to hold a basketball dance Feb. 22, and the same evening are attempting to schedule a contest with the Oakland Y. M. I.

Walker Denies Wife's Charges

TRENTON, N. J. Jan. 27.—UP—Mickey Walker, world's middleweight boxing champion, made a sweeping denial today of the charges in the suit of Mrs. Margaret Kelly Walker, who is seeking to divorce him.

In answer to the suit filed by his attorneys in Chancery court, Walker denied that he was given to excessive drinking. He denied that he has an ill-governed temper, that he ever paid attentions to other women, that he often stayed out late at night and that he frequently received telephone calls from other women inviting him to see them.

The prize fighter denied further that he assaulted his wife in their home at Rumson, N. J., and that he went on a $60,000 spree which took him to Paris.

Mrs. Walker who asked custody of their five year old son, Michael, is living with her parents in Brooklyn.

Women's Indoor Net Play Starts

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass., Jan. 27.—UP—The play of the National Women's indoor singles tennis championship opened at Longwood cricket club courts here today with two rounds being completed.

The feature match of today's play was that of Marjorie Morrill and Mrs. Robert Morris, the former winning 6-3, 6-4.

Eighteen teams have been drawn for the women's national indoor doubles which will begin tomorrow. Miss Sarah Palfrey and Mrs. George W. Wightman, defending champions, have been seeded number one for this contest.

Joe Cantillon Dying, Report

HICKMAN, Ky., Jan. 27.—UP—Joe Cantillon, colorful baseball pioneer and one of the best known figures in the sport world, was given only a few hours to live by physicians attending him here today.

"Pongo Joe," as Cantillon was known from coast to coast in baseballs' early days, suffered a paralytic stroke a few days ago. He was expected at first to recover rapidly, but instead took such a sudden change for the worse that a priest was called to administer last rites of the church.

MAMMY'S PLACE, SANTA FE, GARFINKLES CAGE VICTORS

In spite of a game rally in the third quarter, the Studebaker cagers went down to a 36 to 23 defeat at the hands of the Garfinkle cagers last night on the last card of the regular city league schedule for this season.

Furrer's athletes, the only boys ever to administer a trouncing to the league champions, were swamped by the Santa Fe outfit with a score of 25 to 5.

The Civic Center Tires staged a plucky fight against the elusive Mammy's Place boys, but were defeated by the B division titlists by a 32 to 20 score.

The Studebakers fought an uphill battle during the entire clash with Garfinkle's team, and succeeded in bringing their total up to 20 points by the end of the third quarter against the 25 points piled up by the Clothiers. However, something seemed to snap in the fabric of the Studebaker defense, and the Garfinkle's forwards had litt'e trouble in reaping a plentiful harvest of points during the last five minutes.

Furrer's team last night seemed to have one of its temporary lapses which cost it a chance at the A division title. The Santa Fe squad had a big night romping up and down the floor, and gave a very neat exhibition of basketball.

The Mammy's Place athletes received a bad scare in the last period of their clash with the Civic Center Tires, when the Tires tied them 19 to 19. However, Mammay's boys rose to the occasion, and bombarded the Civic Center bucket from left and right.

Liver, Gall Bladder and Stomach Trouble Relieved

FONG WAN
Eminently Successful Herbalist

2946 Morgan Ave.
Oakland, Cal.
Nov. 19, 1929.
THE FONG WAN HERB CO.
Dear Mr. Fong—I am writing this letter to express my gratitude for the splendid results and benefits I have received from the use of the Chinese Herbs prepared by you.

I had a complication of Liver, Gall Bladder and Stomach Trouble with sharp, stabbing pains in the lower right side of my Abdomen. The region of the Liver was exceedingly sore and tender; so much so that even loose clothing became irritating and uncomfortable. My Stomach was also very sore to the touch and felt as if there were a lump the size of an egg in it. After meals, food which was very sour and burned the throat, was returned to the mouth. This condition steadily became worse over a period of a year. During this time, I was treated by two doctors without any appreciable results. Both decided that an operation was necessary.

By good fortune, I came into contact with a man whom you had treated successfully for an Ulcerated Stomach, and he strongly urged me to take your treatment. This I did.

Results were noticeable the very first week, and now, after six weeks, I am entirely free from the terrible stabbing pains and the soreness over my Liver. My digestion is good. The old feeling of lassitude has completely disappeared and I feel much brighter and more energetic than I have for years.

I am most happy to strongly recommend the herbs of the Fong Wan Herb Co. as prepared by you.

Wishing you unbounded success, and again thanking you for what you have done for me, I am
Very cordially yours,
CYRIL MAW.

"GENERAL CRACK"
BY
GEORGE PREEDY

Copyright 1928 by Dodd Mead & Co., Inc.

The Warner Bros. & Vitaphone production starring John Barrymore is based on this novel.

SYNOPSIS

General Crack, as head of the imperial army of King Leopold, has succeeded in vanquishing the enemy, and lays his plans for the coronation of Leopold as Emperor. He is anxious to return to Ottenheim to claim Princess Eleanora, his wife. Leopold, for state reasons, had to give up Eleanora, as Crack's price for fighting on his side. He is humiliated at the plaudits that go to Crack from the populace. His sister, the Archduchess, especially is captivated by Crack. And Crack had refused her hand, when Leopold first offered it to the soldier of fortune!

No voice was raised for the Emperor; nor did the two women in the coach appear to notice this omission. They seemed to have made themselves one with the triumph of Christian, and to be elated at his elation. And that Christian was cool before all this giddy adulation only added to the deep vexation of Leopold, who thought:

"The higher the peak, the deeper the abyss—to make him fall as no man has fallen since Belisarius!"

XIII

THERE was a reception after the Opera, in the house of the Governor of the Spanish Netherlands, now, after so long, returned in triumph to his residence.

Leopold had to move about among his important guests, making himself agreeable, coining himself, as it were, into compliments, caressing smiles, and looks, to retain these influential people loyal to his cause.

Was she moping and pining—for him?

All of them praised the victorious general to his face, and he had to endure that and agree with the galling laudations of the man whom he more and more detested. He had to endure the spectacle of the Archduchess and the Countess Carola Borgonie, both like nymphs attendant on the god Mars, forever by the side of General Crack, competing, as it seemed to Leopold in his bitterness, for his lightest favour.

Leopold found an opportunity to call Hensdorff nervously aside.

"Have you," he asked, in an eager whisper, "told Prince Christian what I begged you to tell him—given him, in brief, my warning?"

"Your warning?" asked Hensdorff, amazed; for in this hurried moment he could not recall what Leopold meant. Then, before that young man answered, he remembered the scene in the parlour of the grange the day after the great battle of St. Omer.

"Sire," he replied, sternly, "Prince Christian has given me neither excuse nor opportunity for such a warning."

"Look at him," Leopold replied, hastily, "now with my sister and the Countess Carola Borgonie; does he bear himself like a man who takes his honours modestly?"

Hensdorff glanced at the superb victor, but could see no such form of offence as Leopold discerned.

"He bears himself like any soldier in a moment of arrogant victory, he is young, too," he replied. "Your Majesty does wrong to take so much heed of those who fight for you. Use them and let them go; that is the only philosophy."

"It is one to which I have not attained," said Leopold, dully.

Christian was leaning over the back of the Archduchesse's chair. The Golden Fleece, burning and sparkling on his breast, touched her bare, white shoulder. On a stool before the Princess sat the Countess Carola, gleaming in cobalt satin, powdered with pearls — sparkling from her pomaded hair to the flashing diamonds on her tiny shoes; she was gazing up at Christian also, and her tinkling laugh adorned his speech.

It seemed to Leopold as if this man might have either of those women, both of whom were dear and something sacred to himself, by the mere putting out of his hand. "So easy! So easy!" he said, furiously, in his heart. "Even Luisa falls so easily, to the first flashy adventurer. What is he but a mercenary soldier who well knows his trade, who may be bought at any moment if the price be high enough? And he reflected, sickening, the price that he had paid, and the price that he had offered: two women, one woman waiting for the victor in Ottenheim, the other woman sitting there looking as if she were ready to fall at his feet. Could not she also recall how she had been put forward and rejected?

Count Hensdorff still remained by the Emperor's side, watching the sparkling scene which was to him a certain seal upon his strenuous endeavours, a certain insignia of success—as definitely as the collar of The Golden Fleece was the insignia of Christian's success.

"Send me," said Leopold, abruptly, "that scoundrel Gabor. I have some work for him."

"Gabor is in the palace now, I think, Sire," he replied, doubtfully! "but to what end would you see him? Whatever your purpose, you might find a more proper instrument."

But Leopold insisted.

"Send him to my chamber tonight, when I am alone at last. I suppose I shall be alone, somewhere towards the dawn. I must and will see that man, Hensdorff, and if you do not send him to me, I will find him for myself, no matter at what cost and scandal."

Walking daintily across the soft carpet, Gabor stopped before Leopold, who had not looked up at his approach, but sat there, sullen, with downcast head before that wide-flung window which opened on the winter darkness.

"Have you heard any more from Ottenheim?" Leopold asked, in a low voice.

"Only," said Gabor, delicately, "only, Sire, that the girl mopes and pines."

Leopold put his cold hand to his chilled forehead.

"How do you know she mopes and pines?" he whispered.

"I have my agents in Ottenheim as in other places, Sire," replied the Transylvanian. "I was many years in Prince Christian's service, and still am in communication with those who serve him now."

This was true enough, and Gabor had much information as to the petty details of that lonely household in the Château on the Danube.

"The winter comes on," he continued, in a low voice; "all those brilliant birds that Christian paid so much for are dead, or dying: and the antelopes and gazelles also shiver and die. There are no longer any flowers on the ground, any leaves on the trees; and the waters, instead of being blue or green, are now grey. There are clouds, both over the sun by day and over the moon by night; and the stars seldom show. Those big rooms seem very empty to the Princess Eleanora; she is far from every one she knew, save that old woman—who is, after all, Christian's watch-dog, Christian's spy."

"Is she?" said Leopold, hotly. He had not thought of this. "Has he won over that old harridan, then?"

"He has," said Gabor. "She sends him her reports, like a guardian reporting on a prisoner. Eleanora does this, or does that; Eleanora thinks of this, or thinks of that: it is all taken down and sent to her lord and master, who, in his turn, is never so occupied, Sire, in your affairs, that he cannot send back his minute instructions as to his wife—or captive, as you may choose to take her."

"Ay," said Leopold, moodily, "I might have thought of that—he'd have her watched, he would not leave her unguarded. . . ."

"And there is the garrison, too, and Colonel Pons: when she rides abroad, Colonel Pons must be her escort; when she stirs, the garrison must note her going. Do you think that she can long endure this, and not droop, Sire?"

Leopold did not speak.

"And not think," added Gabor, deliberately, "of the man who might rescue her?"

"O God!" cried Leopold, passionately. "What shall I do?"

From the pocket of his decent black suit, Gabor pulled out a fine handkerchief, and stretched it, dragging it exactly corner to corner. As he did this, he remarked, in an abstracted manner:

"Prince Christian is taking great pains, Sire, that the campaign shall soon be over; and when it is over, he will go back to Ottenheim, and it will be too late."

To such a man as Leopold, the words "too late" are the bitterest in the world, for he knows full well how often they must be said about him and his actions.

"Is it true," he asked, huskily, "that she is not well? That she sickens there in her loneliness?"

EL CERRITO TO FIX PART OF SAN PABLO

On the recommendation of Street Commissioner Phil A. Lee the council of El Cerrito at its meeting Monday ordered the street department to repair the shoulder of highway on the west side of San Pablo avenue.

Street Commissioner Phil A. Lee and City Engineer Ross L. Calfee were instructed by the council to interview the property owners on Cutting boulevard west of San Pablo avenue and see if they were in favor of a permanent street improvement on Cutting.

Councilman J. R. Beck stated if a permanent improvement was not put in the city should construct a culvert to take care of water during the rainy season.

Councilman Phil A. Lee stated that he expected to have all of the rights of ways for the opening of a street between Moser and Schmidt Lanes to submit to the council next Monday night.

The council instructed Police Commissioner J. R. Beck to have the Ford coupe which was delivered Monday for the use of the traffic officers painted in conformity with the regulation of the State Motor Vehicle department.

D. McCauley was granted a permit to conduct a social dance at Schwake hall every Saturday night between 8 p. m. and 1 a. m.

Knott Ends 15 Years As County Aid

ly of the development of district No. 1. One of his hobbies has been good roads. He was instrumental in bringing about the improvement of Giant highway, Market street, and the San Pablo creek road.

State Takes Road

It was also through his efforts that the state highway commission was persuaded to take over the county road from Valona to Richmond, passing through Rodeo and Pinole, making it a part of the state system, and taking off of the shoulders of the taxpayers of the county the expense of upkeep.

Much road work on county highways has been done by Knott during his incumbency, until today the western section of Contra Costa is traversed with as fine a set of roads as can be found anywhere, and stand as a testimonial to his work.

Active Worker

Knott has always been an active labor leader, and while he has been the constant friend of the union labor man and his interests he has been broad-minded enough that he could always see both sides of a question, and has been fair with everyone.

In the indignent work of his district, the supervisor devoted a great deal of his time, seeing that the needy were supplied with food and clothing, and where the cases were such that the county could not legally care for them, hundreds of instances are known where Knott personally supplied the funds to keep want from the unfortunate.

Knott has been one of the few persons, not affected adversely by the taking of office. At all time he has been a genial well met fellow, knows everyone in the district, and always has a hearty greeting for them, whenever met.

Fraternal Activities

In connection with his supervisorial duties Knott has always had time for fraternal activities and to show an interest in outdoor sports. In these matters he is known in all parts.

Knotts voluntarily resigning his office, when he had nearly a year more to serve, and unquestionably could succeed himself, without any trouble, is a distinct loss to the people of the county.

If his extended trip results in taking him entirely out of county activities, his absence will be felt with sincere regret by thousands.

BUILDING PERMIT

W. A. Morehead was granted a building permit yesterday in the office of A. J. Hurley city building inspector to alter the supports of a mezzanine floor in the store of the Richmond Hardware company store, Eighth street and Macdonald avenue. The work is to cost $100.

SOFT DRINK PERMIT

At the meeting of the city council last night, Johnny Kenny of 49 Washington avenue was granted a soft drink permit. It was virtually a transfer of the business from Peter Boljat.

HUMPHREY ST. PAVING PLAN SCORED

extended through to San Pablo. As a property holder on that street and in behalf of other lot owners I hope you will take this matter to be a serious one as we can see no reason why this extra tax should be levied on our property as I understand it would be in case it is put through.

Cost Held Exorbitant

"There are many reasons why such an act would be useless. First, it is only a residential street and the cost of improving it as the other streets have been improved with this extra cost of buying up property which you would be required to do to put it through, it would cost more than property on Humphrey street is worth as neither water nor gas can be put on this property without an exorbitant cost. We are facing the same problem they are facing in Oakland, out at Columbia park, for I have known incidents where they have forefeited lots on Rheem avenue district since the present street work has gone in. No one could possibly build from Twenty-sixth street east on account of water and gas. I have 50 feet between Twenty-seventh and Twentyeighth on McBryde avenue, paving was $345.00, and in order to improve same would have to pay $1600 for water, and that is nearer to a water main than any lot below Twenty-sixth street.

"Now when it comes to improving Humphrey street if you will investigate all these reasons carefully you will readily see what it will mean to the property owners who like myself, never expected their property to be taxed more than it is worth. In fact Humphrey street should not be improved until the water and gas situation makes it possible for development. We can always get a street and not have more money invested in dead property.

"I understand you have a list of names favoring this movement. They must have been gotten through John Doe or Henry Miller of Monterey, as I happen to know several on that street and none have signed the agreement.

Yours Very Truly

JAMES L. MUIR"

Chester Lilly Named Patrolman

To fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Fidel Hinshaw, the city council last night approved the appointment by Chief of Police Dan Cox of Chester Lilly as a member of the police department.

DIAZ WILL BE HANGED

OAKLAND, Jan. 27—UP—An unusual sentence of two hangings for one condemned man was passed on Ernest Diaz by Superior Judge Fred V. Wood here today.

Wood first ordered Diaz execution on April 11 at San Quentin for the murder of Stanley Montero. Then he requested that Diaz be hanged on the same day and at the same place for killing Montero's fiance, Mary Munoz.

It was believed to be the first ruling of the kind ever made in California. The defendant's attorney announced he would appeal.

Diaz was convicted for the murders, which occured when Ramos sought to kidnap the girl while she was sitting in an automobile with Montero.

6 Arrested In Liquor Plot

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 27—(U.P.)—Six men were arrested here today on charges of violating the state gun law, and firearms, including a machine gun, were seized. Police claimed they thought the men were planning to smuggle liquor into San Francisco or use their weapons for hi-jacking.

Bail was set at $3000 in each case.

Those arrested gave the names of John Gallitte, 36, George Murray, 46, Romeo Zappettini, 46, Joe Rossi, 24, Larry Brown, 29, and Pete Marfino, 45.

Richmond Y. M. D. At Tracy Meet

Willie Hillier, president of the Richmond Y. M. D. and George Baldwin, a member of the group, returned to Richmond Sunday night from Tracy where they attended a conference.

Plans were made at that time for the Y. M. D. conference which will be held at Hotel St. Claire, San Jose on Feb. 15 and 16.

One of the speakers on the program will be Will Francis, boys work general secretary of the Chicago Y. M. C. A.

Tully Knowles, president of the College of the Pacific will also address the convention.

A large number of Richmond boys will attend the conference.

Veterans Thank City Council

Communications were received by the city council last night from Admiral Dewey camp of the Spanish War veterans, and Honor Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, in which they thanked the members for their action in supporting the veterans' new pension bill.

SCOUT SCHOOL PLANNED HERE

The second half of the advanced training courses for Scout leaders will be held in Richmond from April 28 to May 3, according to an announcement made yesterday by members of the training committee, headed by F. C. Shallenberger of Richmond.

The date was decided upon at a session of the committee last night in Martinez. Harvey MacKinnon of Pittsburg, and Harvey Miller of Martinez met with Shallenberger.

The Concord course will be held from April 21 to 26, it was decided.

A faculty is being selected by Shallenberger and his committee, it was announced.

In addition to the regular courses, there will be special courses in leather work and basket work here, according to R. F. Cox, local Scout executive.

Lions Club To Meet Thursday

The Richmond Lions club will be addressed by Brother Leo of St. Mary's college on Thursday at a noon luncheon at the Hotel Carquinez.

The meeting is to be held Thursday instead of today, due to the inability of Brother Leo to attend today.

Leo Marcollo will be chairman of the day, and the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs have been invited to attend.

MORTEMOTH KILLS MOTHS

The gas from Mortemoth crystals not only protects your furniture for a long time, but contact with it kills all moths, their eggs and their dangerous larvae in furniture which is already infested.

The proper method of using Mortemoth crystals is to tie them in small sacks, and to place these sacks down in the channel of the piece, as deeply as possible, behind the cushions, so that, upon expansion, the gas will spread and fill the spring units in the back and in the bottom of the piece.

When the sacks are empty, fill them again.

KNOTT RESIGNS AS COUNTY SUPERVISOR

pointed to fill the vacancy created in his post.

The new appointments are expected to completely change the situation which will confront the county voters at the election to be held this fall.

At the time Knott handed his resignation to Wells, he issued a statement in which he said that he was going on an extended tour of the east. Knott feels that the post of supervisor should not be vacant during his absence, and therefore submitted his resignation.

The resignation of Knott as submitted to Wells, follows:

January 27, 1930

To the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors,

Martinez, California.

My dear Jasper Wells:

I hereby resign the office of Supervisor of the First Supervisorial District, Contra Costa County, California, my resignation to take effect January 28, 1930.

I regret that the pleasant association which has been my privilege to have with you and the members of the board is now to be discontinued. I know that each and all of us have worked conscientiously for what we deemed was the best interests of this great county.

I am deeply appreciative of the attitude of the remaining members of the board to myself. Their whole-hearted cooperation has been sincerely appreciated and has made easy the task of representing the First District.

Sincerely yours,

ZEB KNOTT.

Speed Suspect Freed On Bail

Charged with speeding 55 miles an hour in a 15 mile zone, Walter E. Bockover, 28 of Oakland was released on receipt of $25 bail yesterday, and will appear before Police Judge J. F. Plank of El Cerrito tomorrow.

Bockover was arrested by Traffic Officer Howard Thulen after he had crossed the county line into Albany.

On the grounds that the El Cerrito officer was out of his jurisdiction, Rockover refused to sign the speeding ticket, and was lodged in the El Cerrito jail.

Pantages In New Fight To Gain Liberty

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27—(U.P.)—Alexander Pantages late today began a new attempt to obtain his release on bail from the county jail, where he is held under sentence of from one to fifty years for attacking Eunice Pringle.

The showman's attorneys filed affidavits of four physicians to support their contention that Pantages is suffering from severe heart attacks which are growing worse.

Superior Judge Charles Fricke, who recently ruled that Pantages be given treatments in the county jail hospital, set an open hearing for Wednesday morning. Pantages claims that the jail hospital facilities are too limited. Mrs. Pantages visited her husband today.

Hi-Y To Induct New Members

Induction of new members to be held tonight was planned by the executive board of the Boys Hi-Y last night at a meeting in the Y. M. C. A.

Members of the board present included: George Degnan, Carl Drexel, Woodrow Snodgrass, Bernard Folett and Jack McLean.

Breakfast At St. Edmund's

A Holy Communion service preceded an 8:30 breakfast of the St. Edmund Episcopal church Sunday school Sunday morning. A large number attended both the communion and the breakfast.

Garage, Auto Destroyed By Fire

Fire believed to have been caused by a short circuit in the ignition system destroyed an automobile and garage owned by Edward J. Swanson, 1104 Stockton street, El Cerrito on Sunday morning.

Damage is estimated at more than $150.

Rev. K. B. Wallace To Address Y. M. D.

Rev. K. B. Wallace, pastor of the First Baptist church will be the speaker at the session of the Richmond Y. M. D. tomorrow night at the Y. M. C. A.

Willie Hillier, president of the group, will preside over the 6:30 dinner meeting.

BUSY WEEK AT HARBOR

With the arrival of the steamer Silver Palm of the General Steamship Lines yesterday morning, a busy week was started at the local waterfront.

The steamer docked at the inner harbor and started taking on a cargo of oils for the Orient.

Tomorrow the steamer Golden River of the O. and O. line is scheduled to dock at the outer harbor to load oils for the Orient.

The Dollar liner Stanley Dollar will dock at the outer harbor on Thursday to load a cargo of oil for the Orient.

Oils for Australia will be loaded by the J. J. Moore liner Ferndale when it docks at the inner harbor on Thursday.
